Bay St. Louis girl won junior arrangement tri-color in the Ozona Camellia show at Sidel last weekend, marking the second straight year that prize has gone to a local entry.

Lorraine de Monthuzin won the top junior arrangement prize with her blue ribbon entry in Class II—A Victorian arrangement—in which she used camellias and azaleas.

Mrs. Dan M. Russell, Jr., captured two of the four blue ribbons awarded in the adult arrangement class at the show. She also won yellow ribbons in two classes—Oriental design and for a formal table. No blue was given in the latter. Mrs. Paul Miller took a red in Class III, French Provincial.

Mrs. Russell's blues were in Class I—Spanish colonial, with bright red camellias, and old oil lamp and a black lace fan, and in Class II—Victorian, with mixed blooms against crushed velvet.

No local winners were noted in the horticultural section.

Compliance

The board of trustees of Hancock General Hospital faced up to a problem Tuesday night and came up with the only solution possible. It assured compliance in the integration required by the vicious so-called "civil rights" laws.

By so doing the hospital will continue to receive the federal funds on which it subsists in a large degree. Refusing to cooperate on the other hand, would mean the loss of the funds but the hospital could still have been required to integrate its facilities. As a publicly supported institution, the law is clear on that point. Even a private hospital probably could be forced to integrate on the same basis that restaurants can be. Since Hancock General has no wards as do many large hospitals, the integration question is minimal. The same question before the school boards is more delicate.

None of this is intended to minimize the black-white nature of the federal law. We merely wish to point up that the problem is not one of integration or no integration.

It was a question of having a hospital subsidized in part with federal funds or of eventually having no hospital. In fact the hospital might have been forced to operate on an integrated basis. Though it took courage, we believe the board took the only feasible course open to it.

A teen task

A GUEST EDITORIAL

As the new year begins everyone must take inventory. We, the Candy Strippers of Hancock General Hospital, must too.

Our first class of 16 girls received training in the spring of 1964. Our training was completed and we organized and began in April. A second class was trained in the summer months.

In September the Women's Auxiliary, known as the Pink Ladies, entertained us and our mothers at a luncheon, beautifully prepared, with most effective favors and appropriate decorations. This was the occasion for the awards when girls who had served 50 hours were given a certificate and those with 100 hours or more were given pins.

During the summer months some girls assisted with the first aid station for REA Day, assisted at two Blood Banks, and acted as pages at the hospital auxiliary state meeting.

The Candy Strippers are indebted to many people for our success. We are deeply indebted to Mrs. Hart for her time in training us, and to Mrs. C.C. McDonald, our adult advisor, for meeting with us.

Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - Personal rivalries and social faux pas sometimes influence the course of nations.

When President Johnson invited Sen. Dick Russell of Georgia to spend three days at the LBJ Ranch right after the election, few people realized, especially Johnson, how many headaches this would cause him.

But as a skilled politician he should have realized it. Russell had just walked out on the Georgia campaign, had not made a speech for Johnson, had gone to Europe on an inspection of military bases even though those bases had been inspected five times during 1964. Yet he was invited to the LBJ Ranch to confer on Vietnam.

Meanwhile, the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, William Fulbright of Arkansas, had campaigned all over his state for Johnson and helped to carry Arkansas for him. Georgia, in the absence of Russell, went Republican.

Other Senate experts on Vietnam such as Sen. Frank Church of Idaho were busy campaigning in their states and carried them for Johnson. None of these loyalists were invited to the LBJ Ranch, Russell, a deserter, was.

The other day in Washington, Sen. Fulbright, who for 15 years has carried the ball on the foreign aid program, this time walked out. It was his turn to desert. Johnson called him on the phone, urged him to cooperate. Fulbright refused.

Flying to London to the Churchill funeral, Fulbright remarked to friends that Johnson's failure to appoint Vice President Humphrey as a representative at the funeral was "pure personal jealousy."

Bobby Baker aftermath

It hasn't made the headlines of the original Bobby Baker charges, but recent developments inside the Senate Rules Committee have shown Don Reynolds to be a rather dubious star witness.

In the first place, he refused to be interviewed by the FBI, later by Internal Revenue, refused to show his full records to Internal Revenue.

Senate investigators, after analyzing Reynolds' bank accounts, found that during the period when he was supposed to have paid $25,000 to Bobby Baker as a political kickback, Reynolds had made cash withdrawals of only $10,500 which could not be accounted for.

The $25,000, according to Reynolds' testimony, was supposed to have paid him by Matt McCloskey, the Philadelphia contractor and former treasurer of the Kennedy election campaign, in order to be passed on to Bobby Baker as a political contribution.

Circumstantial evidence now turned up by Senate investigators indicates that Reynolds did not pass the $25,000 on to Baker.

Farm politics in the economy

There has been friction for some time inside the Cabinet between the Budget Bureau and the President's Council of Economic Advisors on one hand and the Agriculture Department on the other. It began when Kermit Gordon, director of the Budget, sent the President a letter showing that a supplemental appropriation of $1,720,000,000 would be necessary to pay for farm commodity loans because farmers had thrown their crops on the government's hands following speculation that the Johnson administration might lower price supports.

Following this, Gordon made his now celebrated speech pointing out that one million farmers could raise enough food to feed all the American people. The remaining two and a half million farmers should be trained for other jobs, he indicated. A storm of mail and criticism has been flowing into the White House and the Agriculture Department ever since. It caused the President to ask the Vice President, who not only represented the Farmer Labor Party in Congress but is a close friend of Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, to iron out the dispute.

The argument continued right up until LBJ sent his farm message to Congress. Approximately 12 hours before the message went up it still contained Budget Director Gordon's philosophy, spelled out in cold type, that one million farmers could produce enough food for the American people; that two and a half million farmers would have to go.

Vice President Humphrey finally persuaded the White House to eliminate this language. He did so by adroit pressure on the White House by various farm leaders, not by arguing with the President himself.

Basically and privately, Humphrey agrees with Gordon and in the long run, so does Secretary Freeman. But they argue that it's wiser to protect the family farm, even if it does cost something in farm subsidies, rather than glut the city with untrained, unemployed farm labor.

Ishems celebrate 25th anniversary at St. Rose event

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ishem celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary last Thursday, renewing their marital vows at 6:30 p.m. at St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church and entertaining later with a reception in St. Rose auditorium.

Rev. William Jans, S.V.D., pastor, officiated at the service and Brother Edmondson and Alcidie Tate served as lectors at the wedding Bible vigil. The couple's honor attendants, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Williams, took part.

Jones girls maul Richton

Young C. Jones split the bill Thursday night when the Richton Wildcats defeated Bay St. Louis. The Jones girls took their tilt by a comfortable 32-18 margin, but the boys lost 75-73.

The Richton girls matched point for point against Jones in the first period, which closed with a 11-11 tie. Hearing down the Tigrettes shot over the visitors 10-0 in the second stanza never looked back and rolled on to victory. Marilyn Price and Annie Watts, Barry Lizana, a niece of Mrs. Ishem, sang Ave Maria and her sister, Elyria Fairconnet, provided the organ accompaniment.

A five-layer wedding cake, flanked by sprays of white chrysanthemums, centered the main table in the reception hall. Silver bells and wreaths adorned the area and music for dancing was provided by Harry Fairconnet, Clifford Wilkerson and Isaac Darenabour.

The couple's daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Johnson of Chicago, was here for the occasion.

Hawks hold Bay for 2 point win

Bay High fought one of this season's best battles Tuesday night in a trip to Hancock North Central. Although the Hawks came out on top in the cage contest, 60-58, they were being overtaken by the Tigers as the game ended. In the girls prelin, the Tigerettes turned aside the Hawkettes 46-40.

Scoring by the two teams during the first two quarters was identical with HNC collecting 16 and BHS getting 15 in each frame. Tigers Larry Johnson, Mike Necaise and Ross Maurigi got the Bay High machinery running smoothly in the second half and began chopping into Hancock's halftime lead. Quarter scores ran 18-15, 36-30, and 50-46 in favor of the Hawks.

Johnson, Necaise and Maurigi were high men for the Bay with 16, 15 and 14 respectively while the HNC big three were Opening forcefully the Tigers held their hosts to a two point edge during the first quarter which ended 15-13. Hancock pulled steadily out and by the half led 32-26, and 49-33 at the third stop. Eddie Peterson contributed 14 points to the Hawk tally while high man for Slidell was Jim Morton with 25.

At Harrison Central Play-offs start

Annual run-off schedules and brackets leading to state championship play were set by District 5 members of the Mississippi High School Activities Assn. Monday in Wiggins.

AA games for the first sub-district will be at Harrison Central; sub-district 2 will play off at Poplarville. Games will run tonight, Friday and Saturday with district tournaments beginning next week.

In sub-district 1, first-seeded Harrison Central drew a bye for the first round. Playing tonight will be St. Stanislaus vs. Moss Point, Bay High vs. Long Beach and Stone vs. Biloxi. In the second stage Friday, Harrison Central meets the winner of SSC-Moss Pt.

Bowling

Victory of the Bay High-Long Beach and Stone-Biloxi bouts will complete the semifinals. Losers in the semifinals will have a consolation match at 7 p.m. Saturday; semifinal winners will decide the sub-district championship at 8 p.m.

Four teams from each sub-district will advance to the district. Since there is an insufficient number of either AA girls teams or A-class schools in District 5 to require sub-district tournaments, girls teams and A schools such as Hancock North Central will go directly to the district contests.

Rocks shoot down Eagles

Sharing scoring honors for the winning squad were Rusty Judlin and Vince Cuevas who had 18 and 17 points respectively. O.V.'s Tom Brewer garnered 22 points for the losers.

The Rocks beat Van Cleave 78-54 Tuesday but no details were available at press time.

Hawk Wendell Ladner dropped 24 points through the net in the last half of Friday's game against Harrison Central to receive a wild ovation from local fans. The game, played at Hancock North Central, saw the high-flying Hawks settle superiority claims for this season and feather the Reds 58-38.

Harrison's Red Rebelettes, however, trimmed the Hawkettes 41-35.

Coach Roland Ladner again indicated that defense measures had much to do with the successful Hawk-Red outcome, but Wendell's total of 38 points for the game, and scores of 17, 15 and 13 by Eddie Peterson, Paul Cuevas and Kenny Randall helped in no small measure.

Paul Ladner, with 19 and Rusty King with 13 led Harrison's individual honors list.

Hard-played during every quarter, but showing a steadily increasing HNC lead, the boys tilt had period scores of 16-11, 37-27, 41-46.

The girls' game belonged to the Hawkettes during the first half as they racked up quarter tallies of 11-9 and 17-13 over the visitors. Counterattacking heavily in the third, the Rebelettes fought their way to 28-26 score going into the final, and kept their opposers entrenched until the end of hostilities.

Earning two-figures for the winners were Nancy Vogle, 22, and Kay James, 17; Hawkettes honor roll listed Jo Ann Ladner with 19 and Glenda Faye with 12.
